EXECUTIVE EDUCATION

Customisation – meeting the client's needs

Ross Anderson – Director

MELBOURNE
BUSINESS

GLOBAL. BUSINESS. LEADERS.

- This session will focus on customisation as the key to partnering with client organizations on a large scale, complex projects. It will use a case study in which a truly 'blank piece of paper' was brought to the table that led to a multi-layered series of learning interventions

- Customisation as an essential approach to the delivery of precise learning interventions.
- Blended and multilayered interventions to compliment or replace traditional classroom teaching.
- Discovery-Design-Delivery as the essential sequence in truly meeting the client's needs.

- Increased competition from unexpected quarters
- The talent pipeline lacks depth
- The organization's growth goals outstrip the internal talent
- Globalization and increasing technological demands make the leader's role more difficult than ever
- Problems with strategic direction, organizational alignment and employee commitment do not go away

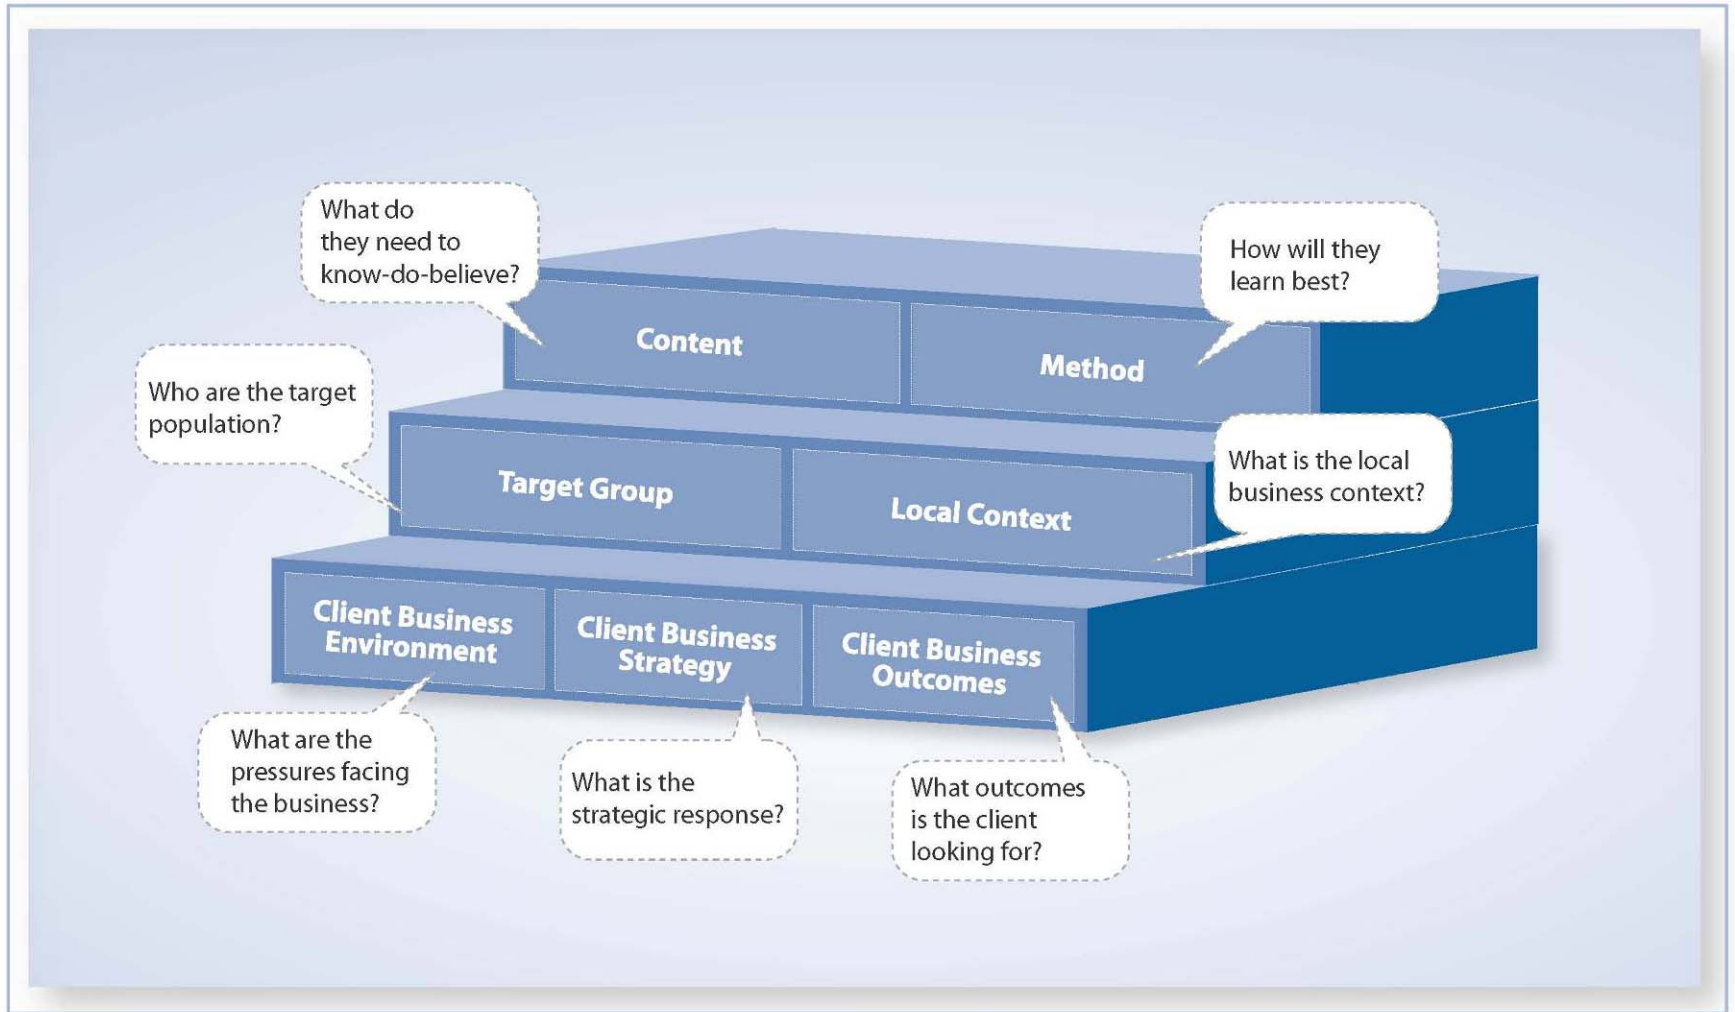

- Excellent leaders in top roles; but some 'gaps'
- Aging senior leadership profile – increasing need for replacements
- Having to recruit a CEO from outside
- 'Bench' of high potentials not as strong as required
- Some high potentials on multiple succession lists
- Senior Leaders not 'walking the talk'
